“I am an attorney, arbitrator, and mediator; I help business owners find solutions to their problems.”

For over 25 years, Jim has represented business owners in transactional and litigation matters. He also serves as a neutral arbitrator and mediator to aid in business dispute resolution.

Jim's practice focuses on corporate, gaming, real estate, financing, intellectual property, licensing, and regulatory matters. He advises businesses of all sizes on corporate transactional matters through all stages of growth, including entity formation, early stage business development, stock and asset transactions, mergers, and other exit events across a variety of industries. Jim also advises business owners in the acquisition, and disposition real estate.

As a litigator, Jim has represented numerous clients through all phases of litigation, from the initial stage of the complaint through discovery, motions, bench and jury trials, and appeals, including arguments before the Nevada Supreme Court that resulted in three reported cases. His experience spans a wide variety of matters such as attorney malpractice, aviation, banking, breach of contract, collections, class actions, construction, gaming, employment matters, franchising, fraud, injunctive relief, leases, real estate, patent infringement, trademark enforcement, shareholder disputes, taxpayer created redevelopment districts, and writs of mandamus and prohibition.
