“I am a well-rounded litigation attorney with experience across various industries, including the cannabis industry with a specific focus on distressed cannabis businesses.”

John Savage is an accomplished litigator, whose practice is primarily focused on business litigation and representing state-court appointed receivers. Prior to joining Howard & Howard, John developed a niche representing receivers appointed over cannabis businesses, including the first cannabis receivership in Nevada. His litigation experience has included business ownership disputes, property disputes, loan defaults, and medical malpractice defense.

Additionally, John serves as an arbitrator in cases assigned to the Court Annexed Arbitration program of the Eighth Judicial District Court of Clark County, Nevada.
